BACKING LAYER, ENVELOPE LINERS & INSERT COLORS

Backing layers are used to add another layer to your printed invitation, which is great for added thickness and a pop of color. The printed layer is adhered to the backing layer, and the backing layer adds a border of color around the invite. Some of the lighter cardstocks shown would work well for any inserts. Colors shown are also available for envelope liners. Envelope colors are on the next page. Don't see the color you want? Let your designer know and we can search our numerous vendors to find a color for you!

ENVELOPE COLORS

Please note the darker the envelope color, the more limited you are on the inks that will show up when printed, or the color of pen you can use when addressing. If we are addressing your envelopes for you, your designer will recommend the best ink colors on your envelope to match your design and for legibility. Lighter inks such as white, cream, or blush can not be printed on envelopes. Don't see the color you want? Let your designer know and we can search our numerous vendors to find a color for you!
